Course Description:

The course includes: analysis of political, military, economic and ideological factors affecting the behavior of states and the conduct of transnational business, with particular attention to multinational enterprises, formulation of foreign policy processes, including economic and trade policies. It also includes: analysis of international legal systems, with particular emphasis on business disputes arising from anti-trust laws; contracts and agreements; tariff liabilities; nationalization problems; procedures for arbitration and settlement. (3 units)

Course Learning Objectives:

Understanding the effect of globalization on international trade and investment.
Considering the economic theories that influence international trade and investment.
Considering the influence of sovereign wealth funds and the role of the state.
Evaluating the pattern of “Race to the Bottom” to take advantage of lower wage levels in underdeveloped countries.
Understanding the importance of international business law

Methodology:

Students are expected to read the assigned chapter and articles and case studies before each class. Case studies and hypothetical problems will comprise a part of each class session. Students will consider the case studies individually and in teams. Many of the case studies and articles will be available by downloading from their computers.

Case studies and articles will be sent to the students’ e-mail addresses several days before class. Hard copies of some cases will be provided a week before.

There will be class discussions and group presentations by students on the case studies and articles.

Project:

Case study problems will be assigned to students on an individual basis and on a group basis. Answers will be turned in and graded.

There will be a final project on a topic to be decided by the students and the professor. The projects will be presented by teams on the next to last day of class. The project paper will be submitted before the end of the semester. The project will comprise approximately 20 per cent of the final grade.

Students' work is expected to be original.

Testing:

There will be one mid-term examination and one final examination. Both will be essay examinations. Homework assignments will be turned in.

Grading:

Grading will be based on the following criteria:

Mid-term	: 30 per cent
