

Do you play E-SPORTS? Join Lincoln's competitive E-SPORT team where you can practice and compete directly from home and at the university once Lincoln returns to in-person instruction!

Lincoln wants to form an e-sports team that could eventually join the National Association of Collegiate Esports (NACE) to compete in tournaments against other colleges and universities in Fortnite, Dota 2, League of Legends, Smite, Super Smash Bros., Rocket League, Overwatch, Halo, COD, FIFA Football/Soccer, Madden, NBA22k, Forza, and other popular tournament games.

Join now so you are a founding member where you and your teammates can create the team's first "official" logo like the model above that reflects the team's school spirit and personality.

We plan to start with intermural e-sports tournaments where Lincoln students compete against each other, and then evolve to a club sport where our team can compete against other club teams at other colleges and universities. Once our e-team is ready, we will join NACE, where you can represent Lincoln University in competition with the other 175+ member colleges and universities in nation-wide tournaments.

If you want to join our Lincoln team, please send an e-mail to Dr. Mike Guerra who is helping to form a team at mguerra@lincolnuca.edu.
